BRIBING AS AN ART.

The San Francisco capitalists, who are mixed up in the Ruef-Schmitz conspiracies, complain that they were unable to do business without paying tribute to the two blackmailers. Ruef is made the chief scapegoat. Even the sins of Schmitz are a pale grey compared to the blackness of Ruef's enormities. There is no evidence anywhere, as yet, that the meek and helpless capitalists, who paid up at Ruef's dictate and in the amounts which he demanded, made any effort whatever to invoke the law which would have intervened. His extortion was readily agreed to, and for one reason only, each was striving to gain advantage to which he was not honestly entitled. Each was trying to get the better of his competitor and was neither nice nor choice as to tools or methods.

At the time of Seth Low's election as Mayor of New York, there was a general overhauling of the city departments. It was discovered, then, that while the people in the tenements were paying to the uttermost for every pint of water they used, hundreds of them obliged to stint themselves because they could not meet the city rates, thousands of gallons had been diverted for use in large manufactories by tapping the mains. This was accomplished through the connivance of inspectors who were bribed, the city receiving not a penny. The same thing occurred a few years ago in Chicago at the stockyards which have since been exposed,

Nothing can condone the offense of taking bribes, but when it comes to a question of moral responsibility there may be extenuating circumstances. But in the case of the man of millions, who corrupts a servant of the government, no excuse whatever can be offered. The bribe-taker is bad, but the bribe payer, inspired by greed and selfishness, is infinitely worse.

HOW TO TREAT THE CONGRESSMEN.

When the Congressmen come, let us keep our grievances to ourselves and give the visitors a good time.

They are not coming for our worries and troubles. They have plenty of their own. What they are after is a view of conditions here and a pleasant outing. They will shy at a grouch and hate the man who trotted it out. Lock your grouches up.

The business of this community, when the Congressmen come, is to show its best side. There are lots of good hammerers here but hammerers are every where and there is no novelty in seeing or hearing them. Congressmen who remember their last campaigns balk when they hear the knocker knocking on the nail. It will be poor business for Honolulu if any of the official visitors balk-mighty poor. What we want on view are our promoters, not our de-

Promote everything Hawaiian, being careful not to bore anybody. Then the Congressmen will do the rest.

We have received a letter, much too long for publication in the steamer day issue, in which Mr. Hocking objects to a statement in the Advertiser's Senate report which accused the brewery of working in opposition to decency in the liquor business. Without knowing all the merits of the case, the editor of this journal wishes to withhold no praise which Mr. Hocking may bave won by work for local option and high license and against the city's dives. If he has contributed in these respects to the cause of decency, he ed and passed through first reading. surely has been greatly wronged by expressions to the contrary. It is not always possible to sift information nor to compel men who say any given thing to stand by it when challenged, but we can assure Mr. Hocking that it is no part of the policy of the Advertiser to misrepresent him or anybody else.

One of the anomalies of Hawaiian legislation is that measures of which longest notice has been given, and for which most unmistakable demand has come from the community at large, often have the most difficulty of securing passage. Of such is the measure providing for the establishment of a home for the boys that are born in the leper settlement. If ever anything was promised to the unfortunate wards of the Territory it was the institution in question. Estimates for its erection were carefully prepared and any item of an appropriation bill which falls short of the estimated amount is liable to prevent anything at all from being done in the matter within the ensuing period. The specific bill for the object, in its integrity, should long before this have been passed.

There is not a respectable breath of public opinion which does not There is not a respectable breath of public opinion which does not denounce the present liquor law. Various interests as related to the question have joined minds and produced a bill that, at the worst, is a fair compromise firms or corrections storing because it could not agree.

Pinkham had been summoned and had told the committee that the press. have joined minds and produced a bill that, at the worst, is a fair compromise and promises an infinite improvement over the present situation. If this measure be defeated by wanton action of legislators, or through covert attack of special interests, or both together, an accounting to the public not pleasant to those responsible will be as certain as the progression of the seasons.

One of the hardest things the people can have to forgive in the conduct of representatives is the playing of the baby act in legislation. A policy of "you kill my dog I kill your cat," either as between members of one house or as between two houses, is so puerile as to merit contempt. Every measure should stand on its own bottom and be dealt with purely on its merits. Any other mode of treatment of the public interests is not merely child's play, it is the buffoonery of the sawdust ring.

When the Legislature makes appropriations in excess of probable revenue it simply gives the Executive a free hand to manipulate expenditures at its pleasure. Thus what perhaps a majority of the Legislature might have voted priority to, if items were thus to be scheduled, the Executive may leave to the last and so have nullified by force of circumstances. And this power the Legislature is tending to give to a Governor unknown until after one day

Senator Smith has mellowed wonderfully since he thundered in the forum against spending money on the Board of Genealogy. His fight for $20,000 for the protection of the remains of dead kings is sublime. It would likewise be just if all the royal remains extant were not better housed than most of their surviving kindred and former lieges. Let the dead rest, so long as they are not kicking.

Lumber is not likely ever to become so dear that the historic old Mission House can not have at least its form preserved for generations to come. Someone, indeed, may one day invent a chemical wash to petrify wooden buildings. Anyway, the first frame house ever erected in Honolulu is worth preserving as long as possible.

The Draper's Record, a recent London dispatch says, announces that sulphur yellow will be the popular shade in 1907, both for women's dresses and house decorations. It already has a vogue in Paris, and London is following. Panchbowl has led the world's gay capital in this freak of fashion for many years.

For the good name of the Territory, gentlemen, don't make a Panama canal muddle of the Nuuanu dam. Water is more important to Honolulu than an isthmian waterway is to the nation,

So careful have the members of the House been, under the watchful eye of the Speaker and the close scrutiny of John Hughes, of the Expenditure com-mittee, that there threatened to be a tidy surplus in the $30,000 set aside for them for legislative expenses from the Federal grant. It would be poor-policy, certainly, to let any of this money get away out of the country and go back to Washington, while at the same time there is no possibility of any of it being frittered away under the supervision of the trio watching it, Holstein, Hughes and Secretary Atkin-son, but there was no reason why the House should not have some new furnishings out of the available balance. DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATIONS man CUT.

The Current Expense bill was reported on by the conference committee, showing a shrinkage in committee of $84,150. One item of $24,000 for government physicians, which is also in the Salary bill, was cut out, the grant to the Associated Charities was cut in two, to $2400. A big cut was made in the Landing $5000, and Kauai, $5000. This is $11, 000 less than in the bill.

The items of $1500 to buy heiaus and puuhonuas, and $15,000 for the Wlaimea embankment, were wiped out, and $250 less is to be given for the Hilo pilot boat.

One item alone was raised, that being for the support of the Promotion Committee, from $5000 to $6000.

The $2000 voted to extend the Waimea water works fell by the wayside, as did a $5000 item to fight grass and forest fires. New buildings for the leper settlement, to cost $20,000, were cut out and the Malulani hospital, Maui, will have to get along on $6000 instead of $8000.

This report was accepted without protest.

SALARY BILL.

Not so the conference report on the Salary bill, which put back the Territorial bacteriologist on the payroll and knocked out the language qualifications for the keeper of the archives.

When the report was read Rice moved its adoption. He recognized the fact that the figures would not be wholly satisfactory, but a compromise had to be effected with the Senate
